

Hummingbird Connectivity™

First Connectivity Suite Certified for Windows Vista

Organizations are working hard to stay on the cutting edge of technology. That's the driving force behind successful businesses, and it's what separates leaders from the rest. Successful leaders have strong desires to increase end user productivity while reducing overhead costs. Let us help you continue to be the best leader in your field by easing your business challenges and making your business world better!

The Challenge

Challenges that companies are facing nowadays are twofold. The first set of challenges is environmental and user driven: the reality of system insecurities, extending the lifespan of legacy applications, simplifying IT infrastructure, and supporting the growing "mobile" workforce. Secondly, business organizations are forced to face challenges that consist of restrictions and limitations, both externally and internally imposed: insufficient resources, tightened IT expenses, and the growing list of regulations and policies with which a company has to comply.

The market is filled with vendors who claim to have the answer to those corporate challenges. Many solutions have too narrow a focus to be effective, and even more are just broken promises.

The bottom line is that companies need the assurance that their mission-critical applications and data are being stored and accessed by robust and reliable operating systems.

Windows Vista—The "Must Have" Factor in Corporate Computing

Enter, center stage, Microsoft Windows Vista. With improved core technologies, revised security infrastructure, enhanced management tools and policies, and finally a more polished user interface with a calculated increase in productivity. Windows Vista dramatically improves company-wide application deployment, provides centralized security for protecting corporate data, and supports mobile workforces by increasing their freedom to do their jobs.

Certified for Windows Vista

The only way for business users to ensure Windows Vista enhancements are fully experienced and utilized is to insist on deploying software packages that have received the "Certified for Windows Vista" logo—a symbol of quality software design, a recognition of excellent user experience, and a guarantee of outstanding product reliability. Only the best-in-class software is honored with this distinct logo.

Hummingbird Connectivity Continues to Lead the Pack!

#1 Suite of Connectivity Solutions is #1 to Get Certified for Windows Vista

Hummingbird Connectivity, a division of Open Text, has been supporting tens of thousands of customers worldwide with solutions that connect users to applications, data, and people since 1989. We have partnered with Microsoft as an early adopter of the Windows Vista certification program and received the "Certified for Windows Vista" logo for our latest Connectivity product offerings. We are thrilled to help our customers and organizations remain competitive with a complete and cost-effective suite of solutions that will help to enhance reliability, security, and compatibility.

The following products were vigorously and exhaustively tested by a Microsoft-authorized third-party laboratory until their finalization. The following are available on both 32-bit and 64-bit platforms:
